Have a Pleasant Stay....

We're Glad You're Here! We are working to create a peaceful, natural, somewhat rustic retreat environment for solo retreatants and occasional small groups who wish to join us in a Dhamma centered life. The 'wheres' and 'hows' are not always obvious so we hope this document helps. Thank you for joining us in the journey for however long you are able. We wish you a peaceful sojourn!

Cost

We operate on a donation basis. There is no set fee for hospitality, accommodations or guidance but your donation allows us to pay for the building and maintenance of the valley and facilities. The practice of generosity, or "Dana" is an important aspect of Dhamma practice. Please make a contribution that is respectful both of what you have received and of your current means. There is a donation box in the Guest House. Donations of labor & skill are very acceptable forms of reciprocity and generosity as well. We very much appreciate your support.

Guidance

Liberation Park provides hospitality for mature practitioners to practice silent personal retreat. For the most part you will be expected to self direct your retreat. If Santikaro is on site you may make arrangements to meet with him to talk about your practice. You are welcome to participate in any group meditations or study sessions taking place during your stay. Jo Marie is available for spiritual direction or to facilitate some time with the horses if you so desire.

Quiet

If you are here for retreat we ask that conversations be kept to a minimum, both to support your retreat and to respect others who may be in silent retreat in and around the buildings. Strict silence is not necessary when navigating shared space, or shared work periods. Quiet practice-related conversations or guidance interviews should take place in a private location to avoid disturbing other retreatants.

What to Bring

- Your own vegetarian food (fridge and dry storage are available)
- Sleeping bag or bedding and pillow if you will be in the tents (we have sleeping bags to loan if you do not have one)
- Towel and personal toiletries including nontoxic insect repellent and biodegradable soap and shampoo (we have towels to loan if you forget)
- Outdoor clothing appropriate to the season including rain gear and rugged shoes
- Flashlight, batteries and alarm clock if needed
- Water bottle

Please DO NOT bring:

- Drugs, alcohol or tobacco products (except prescription drugs and caffeine)
- Computers or I-Pads
- Companion animals (except by special arrangement)
- Radios (musical instruments can be played if they are not disturbing others)

Bedbug Precautions

With the recent global upsurge of bedbug infestations, we ask that you postpone your visit if you have had a known exposure, or a known treatment of your household in the last 90 days. If you receive any mysterious insect bites in any of the rooms at night alert a caretaker immediately.

Parking

Our parking area is small at the moment. Do what you can to park inside the fenced off area by the road, in a spot that does not block the horse trailer. If all spots are taken, park along the road. Please do not park inside the main boundary fence or anywhere on the farm road unless instructed to. You may drive up to the buildings to unload your belongings.

Property Boundaries & Roads

On the final page is a map of LP boundaries. Please don't stray onto neighboring property. The boundary fences are marked in blue. All the horse pasture fences have electric wire and the jolt can be quite painful - careful not to touch!

You are welcome to take walks or bike rides on area roads. There is one road we ask guests to avoid, and it is the triangle shaped road that goes around our north neighbor's property (Kimono). In order to respect their privacy we ask that you stay on the main road (Kendall), and not take the scenic tour around their house.

Intoxicants

We ask that no intoxicants (aside from caffeine and necessary medications) be used while staying at Liberation Park. Smoking is not allowed on the property. Thank you for your understanding.

Close all Gates and Doors.

If you find a fence gate deliberately secured in the open position, leave it open. Otherwise please close all gates and doors behind you even if you think you are coming right back. Because of the many domestic and wild critters we live with, it is important to keep everyone in their proper homes: horses in the pasture, raccoon, skunks, squirrels & woodchucks out of the shed, etc. The most important doors to close are inside and around the barn: horses will overeat on certain things such as grain in the tack room or duck house, or apples in the orchard, resulting in crippling illness or death. A barn door or gate left open can quickly have tragic results.

Caretaker's Cabin

The rustic, wood sided cabin west of the guest house is where the caretakers (Santi & Jo) live. Please respect their privacy, but in case of an urgent need you are welcome to knock on the door.

Kitchen

The shared kitchen in the Guest House is available for food storage and cooking. You will be directed where to put food when you arrive. You may be navigating one or more other retreatants during your retreat. If you can bring some pre-prepared foods that just need to be heated up it makes the shared kitchen experience easier.

Laundry & Bathrooms

You will find two full bathrooms with showers and a laundry room on the first floor of the Guest House. When using the laundry, use biodegradable soaps and try to be timely with removing your laundry and allowing others to use the facilities.

Food Storage & Composting

Store all food in the Guest House kitchen and pantry. No food items are allowed in the tents, and only tightly contained snack items in the Forest Hermitage and the Garden Hermitage – the mice, raccoons and skunks quickly identify sources of food and become rather pesky neighbors. Please use the composting pile bins near the garden beds for food scraps. Help yourself to the garden. We ask that a vegetarian diet be observed while visiting Liberation Park.

Biodegradable Soaps

Please use only non-toxic and biodegradable soaps for bathing, laundry and dishes. All of your waste water goes directly into the environment and quickly finds its way to the stream and the groundwater. If you are unsure whether your soap is biodegradable ask us for a container of castile soap.

Tent Care

The tents each have instruction sheets in them - please help us keep them in good shape for a long time to come. Please use your own bedding, or the sleeping bag liners and sleeping bags provided. Using the liner is important so the bag is in good, clean shape for the next camper.

Propane Lamps

If you are at all uncertain in using the propane lamps, be sure to ask for a demonstration. They are safe and very useful. It is very important not to touch the mantle when lighting! They are fragile and will disintegrate with contact. Keep away from tent canvas and fabrics. Put out before falling asleep.

Cell Phones and Computers

You may carry a cell phone if you feel you need it for safety or necessary communication with family, but please refrain from using it for discretionary conversation. Please leave your computer at home or in your car.

Barn and Animals

Animals are a vital part of our life here. We have a thriving community of cats and horses. Many of the cats are or have been feral and may be shy. Some are more eager to interact with people. Feel free to make friends! Ask for help before going to the barn area or approaching the horses. They are always happy to greet and visit with guests, but they are big and there are some safety precautions to be observed. Please do not let cats into any buildings – the indoor cats have a home at the caretaker's cottage; the outdoor cats have a home at the barn. 😊

Bike trail, Kickapoo Valley Reserve, Wildcat, Necedah

If you brought a bike, or if you want to take a break from meditating and go for a hike or canoe, please ask us for more information about how to find the bike trail, the Kickapoo River, or the one of several parks and reserves.

Local Clinic/medical care: Scenic Bluffs, Hospitals, Warrens Walk in clinic

If you need medical care, please first let us know (unless it is an emergency). We can direct you to the most appropriate facility. There is a very good community clinic in Norwalk (Scenic Bluffs), two hospitals in the near vicinity (Sparta & Tomah), and a walk in clinic in Warrens, about 25 miles away, with more liberal hours than the one in Norwalk.

Wild Cats & Other Animals

Bobcats are shy but if you are lucky you may see one. We believe there is at least one living in the valley and she has been spotted in the back meadow.

Cougars have occasionally been seen in the region, but generally try very hard to avoid people. The DNR reports that breeding adults and kittens have not been reported this far south. The solitary adults that have been encountered are thought to be only passing through. If you should encounter a large cat it is important not to run as that can make one look a little like a cat toy. You may walk away quietly, or if the cat shows an interest in you, make yourself as large and noisy as possible. Please tell us if you encounter a cat at LP.

Black bears and wolves have been spotted South of I-90 very rarely. Neither should bother humans, but please report any sightings. Coyotes are common and are more often heard than seen.

Ticks & Lyme disease

Deer ticks live in our area. If you visit LP, please be aware of the possibility of contracting lyme disease, which is a tick born illness. Like most of the midwest, the northeast, and increasingly the northwest United States, Lyme disease and other tick born illnesses are endemic here. Encountering ticks is one of our facts of life at LP and we are learning to live with nature's creatures and rules.

Fortunately Lyme disease is both preventable & treatable. By following these precautions you can be reasonably certain that you will not contract the disease.

Precautions & prevention

- Wear light colored clothing & use insect repellent (we can recommend some good, non-toxic brands, samples of which can be found in the shed).
- Familiarize yourself with what a deer tick looks like. Ask for identification cards if needed
- Check yourself thoroughly -- full body inspection -- once a day. Have someone check your back, or use the mirrors provided on the bathroom doors. It is thought that ticks must be attached for longer than 24 hours to transmit the spirochete responsible for Lyme disease.
- Remove imbedded ticks with a tick key (hanging in the bathrooms.) Ask for assistance if needed.
- A single dose of doxycycline is effective in preventing Lyme disease if taken at the time an embedded tick is removed (available locally for those who are certain they do not have allergies to any antibiotics).
- If bitten, be mindful of any rash or flu-like symptoms over the next several weeks. Prompt treatment (usually 2- 4 weeks of twice daily antibiotic depending on length of time symptoms have been present) will eradicate the disease and prevent long term sequelae.
